Bass are more evolved than trout. Not as much as catfish. lol

If you flyfish something like a farm pond frequently the bass will know whats in your fly box better than you.

So if you have been hitting the same spots it doesn't mean the flies aren't any good if they turn up a fin at them. Fly fishermen don't have the advantage of using sound variations the way lure fishermen do.

That's why fly fishing for largemouths is about as challenging as it gets in freshwater fishing.....
