

Subject: : Tips and Tricks

Topic: : Terrestrials

Re: Terrestrials

Author: : Fishidiot

Date: : 2012/7/19 20:25:50

URL:

Quote:

FlyFisherMin wrote:

One more question. What rod should I be looking to use for dry fly fishing? I have a 7'6", 3wt rod and another 7'6", 6 wt rod I got from my uncle. I'm looking to get an 8 or 9 foot, 5 wt rod. I've heard that a lower weight rod would do the trick, have I heard correctly?

For fishing terrestrials in small Pennsylvania streams, the 3WT would be ideal. The general trend in fly rods is toward longer and lighter weights. An 8-9 foot 5 WT is a good general purpose trout rod. I like tiny fly rods for fishing summer terrestrials personally.

And another vote for a foam beetle.