I buy the best gear I can to suit my needs, period. I'm looking for quality, guarantee, fit, feel, etc without going over the top. Why not buy on sale when you can? You get what you pay for to some extent, much of fly fishing gear in general is over priced no matter what the name. Obviously some is vastly underrated as well. We all have different experiences from products/manufactures hence why/how we formulate our opinions.

Personally the last thing I care about when I'm on the stream is judging somebody else by what kind of gear they have. I'm there to fish not to be a judge in a gear pageant. Buy what works for you and is within your budget.
