

Subject: : Print, Video, Audio Discussions

Topic: : Finback Films in Kickstarter

Re: Finback Films in Kickstarter

Author: : jbeck

Date: : 2012/7/30 15:21:46

URL:

Ok, you are investing in the production costs of the film, but you will not realize any return on that investment besides the "reward" that is layed out in the chart, corresponding to the investment you make. Think of it more like a donation than an investment.

I was thinking about kicking in some money, and have it marked on my calendar to check the page before it expires. There are less worth-while causes I have donated money to. I like some of the FF movies I've seen, and from the trailer, it looks pretty well done. Just don't expect anything more than an expensive copy of the DVD and the good karma you get from helping them produce it.