As for the "experienced" guys using 9X tippet on Valley - they're not as experienced as you'd think. 😊

You know I hardly ever disagree with you but I do disagree here about VC. I have fished those fish with 6, 7, 8 and 9X tippets and there are certain pools where 9X is a must. I won't even reply to the last part of your comment because it's not worth a reply.

I will agree that suggesting newbies use anything less than 6X is not the best idea. Tricos can be frustrating for those of us "not experienced as you think" guys, I can only imagine what's it's like for new guys. Don't put too much stock in lack of success on tricos, that will come with experience which apparently I have yet to gain, at least according to H-A anyway.
