Figured I start a new thread on this following last Saturday's Newbie Jam on the Little L. As mentioned Shane and I are working on coordinating this.

Thus far it looks like October 6th and we are currently trying to identify an ideal location for the meet up / picnic portion of the event.

I figure by then the temps should be much cooler, especially up here by that time of the season so we all won't have to worry sweating our brains out while casting to uninterested fish.

Will be back with updates as soon as we square away the site.
