

Subject: : Beginner Forum

Topic: : Tick Advice for "New" Outdoorsmen

Re: Tick Advice for "New" Outdoorsmen

Author: : joseywales

Date: : 2012/8/1 21:44:59

URL:

Thanks. I should know better. I have all of my fishing clothes, etc. already sprayed. I was just wondering around and was actually more careful about not stepping in any poison plants. He was right on my back! Maybe he was hanging on my shirt. As you saw, there aint much on the roof for him to hang on to!

You're right though, ticks are the appendix of the insect world. Is there any animal that lives of them???? Not that I'm aware.

My nephew's face was severly sagging on one side. It has almost cleared, but I honestly don't think there's been an improvement in months, so the remaining could be permanent. He never hunts or fishes. He was most likely bit at college in Kutztown.