They are now, Dwight.

At the Youth Championship here in 2007, a recommended list of flies was passed to all the teams when they arrived. The Portuguese team didn't believe the green weenie was real. After the last day of competition on the Little J, one of the kids from Portugal asked what the green weenie was. A kid from the UK cut the green weenie from his leader and handed it to him. The kid from Portugal threw it on the ground in disgust, because he still couldn't believe it worked.

The UK team finished 3rd. Portugal was last. They know now...
