If they try it, I hope you guys are correct, that it will not cause fighting among fishermen. I imagine new "hog troughs" (what they call tailwaters out West) would appeal to many fishermen: fly-fishermen, lure fishermen, and live bait fishermen alike. Anyhow, I hope you people are correct in that it might be a positive thing and would not negatively affect the upper Juniata, which is still a wonderful smallie "factory," according to some guys I know who like to fish there.
