

Subject: : Warm Water & Salt Water Fly-Fishing

Topic: : Delaware coast

Re: Delaware coast

Author: : vregular

Date: : 2012/8/14 8:56:25

URL:

Was wondering if anyone was going to mention the mullet; markq is right on. Be on the look out for them. They should begin to pour out of the bays about that time. Also, that time of year you can find some more southern friendly fish - - ie., spanish macs. They can definitely be caught there.

And there is no doubt the rocks are slick. I'm not sure I'd venture out on that north jetty without anything but korkers, but to each there own.

That said, you can find some good fishing, if the fish are there....