pcray1231,

I fish that salt surf all the time, my highly educated friend. Plenty of flounder (mostly shorts, but still fun with a light outfit) and snapper blues, herring, and the weaks are starting to come back! Thank God! Maybe too early for the stripers?

I would forget the big surf pole you will only catch skates and small sand sharks with the bait rig and sinker! It's not worth the trouble to cast out and put in a sand spike.

Your med spin rod with 10lb Power Pro and a 1/8 oz jig head with a Gulp Alive 2 1/2" minnow will catch anything that swims, but I have also had great success with a 7wt and small white Clousers.

High tide and outgoing seem to be the best. Remember the fish will hug the shore at the first wave dropoff.

Lots of action with a small white Clouser twenty feet from shore when the tide and light are right.

If you catch anything, please post pix with a report. Very strange how nobody posts fish pix anymore? I'll start posting again if others do?
