I have an interest in movement of fish around, through, and over dams regardless of location (Pa or elsewhere). My question had nothing to do with dam removal; I didn't even know the history there. I try not to ask questions that will result in speculative answers; your answers provided me with the info that I sought, except that in my brief visit to the dam I did not note the cement standing area. As a result, I am not certain how high on the dam face a foot higher than the standing area would be.

Thank you for responding.
