

Subject: : Fly Fishing Locations

Topic: : Floating the Conestoga River

Re: Floating the Conestoga River

Author: : TimB

Date: : 2012/8/14 22:14:58

URL:

I've floated it from Millersville to the mouth. It's easy enough and if you go on a weekend, you won't be alone. that's a pretty popular float. There are some bony sections that you'll likely have to drag/wade. IMO, the river fishes best when the flow is at or below 350cfs on the gauge below Lancaster. Higher than that, the floating is easier, but the fishing slows.

Don't be fooled by the comment that it's just a big creek. It's a river and should be respected as such. I ALWAYS wear a PFD while floating it. I may look like a geek to the bikini clad coeds, but I'm okay with that....