

Subject: : Conservation

Topic: : An alternative to hydro fracking?

Re: An alternative to hydro fracking?

Author: : franklin

Date: : 2012/8/15 8:04:25

URL:

Could it be that gas and oil are the most economical sources of energy, the world has figured this out, and because of the large demand and supply they are big business.

Oil and gas are simply millions of years worth of solar energy converted to a chemical form that are deposited around the earth. They happen to be in a form that we can easily convert back to heat.

Romney isn't saying he will convert us over to another energy form. He said he would make us independent from non-North American sources in five years. Still a challenge but much different than converting to non-hydrocarbon sources.