

Subject: : Conservation

Topic: : Cold Water Sanctuary

Cold Water Sanctuary

Author: : Stenonema

Date: : 2012/8/19 2:54:18

URL:

I've read a previous thread that brought this situation into topic. I feel a need to expound. I've read a book or two on Pennsylvania trout fishing that demonstrated this type of cherry picking. Wild browns will stack on cold water prior to running to spawn. I believe that fishing on these fish is a detriment. Weather you catch these fish or not. In the premise of protecting wild fish do you believe that the PFC should protect these areas from fishing pressure?