

---

Subject: : Hatch and Entomology Forum

Topic: : Hexagenia

Re: Hexagenia

Author: : uplandguide

Date: : 2012/8/20 22:12:30

URL:

Acually they are limbata. I have a picture of a male spinner that landed on me a couple nights ago. If I can figure out how to post it I'll show you.

Last evening I noticed for the first time this year a White Fly hatch This hatch, last year, on this stream was quite significant and I fished it well into Sept. I actually had one land on my watch face and within a minute shed it's skin going form dun to spinner in front of my eyes. Was really amazing to watch.