Pretty much agree with what Jeff said. The coho's are wild when first entering he river. That's why I shell out the money for the DSR. Also have had some nice catches on fresh kings down there. Never thought I would biotch about hooking a 20lb. fish, but when fishing for browns and steel, the last thing you want is to hook a king before the fly drifts thru to the trout.....been going up for 25+ years and it never gets old.....can't wait.....
