Been fishing the SR for 30 yrs. In the beginning I was like everyone else believing the Kings won't hit. After a year of snagging I was shown by others that they do hit.....if you actually fish for them. Any way I now concentrate most of my time on the river up as far as you can go and have many days that they wear me out, then there are those days that it's hard to get any players....that's fishing. Catch them on streamers, wooly buggers, glo bugs, estaz, nymphs, and others in various colors. Sometimes color is very important and then there are those days they hit all colors.

If they don't get rain soon this will be a horrible year and I might cancel. It'll be very depressing to do that as it's something I look forward to but I remember a couple years ago when it was this dry and I really hated it.
