IT is resource first to protect the streams, it is also the job of PFBC and TU to educate the angling public to how precious wild trout are, it is not conservation to protect stocked trout, and in 99% of the cases we're talking about stocked trout are the issue, not wild trout.

What I'm saying is that the wild trout are long gone up tributaries by the time the stockies collect at the mouths of coldwater refuges. If you want to really protect the fish educate the anglers.
