I am really looking forward to this and very happy that Heritage Angler asked for my help. We have some unbelievably talented and generous tiers on the forum, so I can't imagine this being anything but a great opportunity to learn from some of the best!

When choosing patterns, try to keep in mind that you will be demonstrating for a mixed audience including beginners. So try to pick something that allows you to demonstrate a technique and plan to really explain that part of the process. As H.A. said, there will be a lot for the group to digest, so keeping the main message simple for each pattern will be a big help to the beginners.

So let's get the fly list filled up!
