Saved me a phone call. 😊

Same deal as last year - I'll have everything you need to do your usual duties. Trowpa filled in admirably for you last year - maybe he'll be willing to lend a hand again. Two people would make things easier to handle, and allow one person to man the raffle table while the other ties.

Hate to dump responsibilities on you guys, but you two are my "aces" when I need help. And gfen - can't forget my buddy gfen.

Calling gfen (telepathically).....need your shutter finger again.

As far as videos go, there is equipment there to allow video to be projected up on the screen in the front of the room. I'd really like to take advantage of this, provided we can make the necessary hookups. They also have wifi, so maybe live streaming video is a possibility. I'd at least like to save the video footage to a dvd. FT has a new video camera as well. There's an Apple laptop there with a cord to connect a camera to - no idea of the length. The laptop is already connected to the projector. The LGNC uses it to show dvd's on the screen.

This is something that we'll have to investigate beforehand. We have permission to experiment from the LGNC. Maybe I can con gfen into checking it out with me, if I buy him lunch. 🍷
