Boyer,

I noticed last weekend with the sinking line that a few fish would see the line and turn the other way which would spook any nearby fish in the pod.

I also had a few bump into the line and do the same. I think I am going to abandon the sinking line. The water I fish is only 3-4 feet deep anyway. A sink tip may be fine, but full sink does not seem to work out too well.

I plan to try the floating line tomorrow and see if it makes any difference.
