

Subject: : Warm Water & Salt Water Fly-Fishing

Topic: : new warm water species for me! not quite a snakehead...

Re: new warm water species for me! not quite a snakehead...

Author: : LongWader

Date: : 2012/9/9 9:58:23

URL:

Yeah those northern banded watersnakes are aggressive. They have a nice set of teeth to boot. I had a similar situation 20 years ago which ended with a snapping turtle grabbing the snake in the middle and twisting it to pieces like a gator would. Prior to that I did not know a snapping turtle could do a death roll. unfortunatly I did not get my streamer back. I watched transfixed as the turtle dispatched the snake, tore it apart, and ate it.