I've had people try that with me, it usually just takes a "WTF" aimed in their direction for them to get the hint that I'm not going anywhere.

for the most part though, the majority of anglers are polite, regardless of what equipment they are fishing. I've had the good experiences far outnumber the bad. an open mind and good attitude go a long ways when fishing there. some people need to remember that it's just fishing, that's all it is, and we're all there to try and enjoy it.
