I watched the web cam all weekend and it never reached the proper water levels. Look at the stream gauges, they're not at the "blown out" levels. This is not THE RUN, but it'll be here before we know it.

I don't doubt there's some fish in the creeks now, but not too many to start booking a room or traveling from any distance to fish.

:edit

Blown out typically is the walnut gauge at about 300. The elk gauge is actually in a trib of Elk and not a good indicator of stream flow IMO.

Also look at the web cam for Uncle Johns. No one is fishing. Yeah it's Monday, but where there's fish, there's fishermen. That spot's only about a mile up from the mouth of Elk.
