Ok, the susky is definitely bigger than the yough(biggest water i fish somewhat regularly), but i suggest floating it. You cover ten times the water you would by walking/wading and its a crash course on the body of water you are fishing. I guarantee after one float you will have a list of spots that you would want to go back and investigate, and you will have a list of stretches that just plain suck. I love aerals, but they cant makeup for being on the water.
