

Subject: : Hatch and Entomology Forum

Topic: : Big Stoneflies in September

Re: Big Stoneflies in September

Author: : afishinado

Date: : 2012/9/11 6:06:55

URL:

Quote:

troutbert wrote:

It looked like a golden stone to me. I didn't look at it real long, but looking at the underside, the whole body was yellow.

Come to think of it, I have seen a few here and there through the summer months.

But these were flying around in substantial numbers. If trout are really seeing big yellow stoneflies from about late May right into fall, maybe that explains why a big yellow Stimulator is such a killer pattern when the water is up.

I don't recall seeing them flying about in the late summer/early fall but it's not uncommon to see the fresh shucks clinging to streamside and midstream rocks, so I know they are around.