

Subject: : Conservation

Topic: : Natural gas drilling accident along the Loyalsock?

Re: Natural gas drilling accident along the Loyalsock?

Author: : TimMurphy

Date: : 2012/9/12 8:32:23

URL:

Dear Board,

Bentonite is a naturally occurring clay that is grayish-green in color. Drop a handful in a bucket of water and that is exactly what it will look like. With no flow it's not going to flush quickly but like the Farmer said it's not a big deal.

Regards,

Tim Murphy 😊