

---

Subject: : Conservation

Topic: : Natural gas drilling accident along the Loyalsock?

Re: Natural gas drilling accident along the Loyalsock?

Author: : nymphingmaniac

Date: : 2012/9/12 15:07:17

URL:

I know nothing about this creek or its current condition. However, silt/clay like this is harmful to trout spawning and macro habitat. There may be no short term problems (fish kill) but if such events are allowed to occur, the long term health of the stream could be impacted. So while it might not be 1000s of gallons of fracking water, if such events are not kept in check the fishery would decline.