I am a golf course superintendent. We have 5 different ponds on the golf course as well as a natural reproductive brook trout stream. The brookies are extremely small 2 to 4 inch range, but the bass in the ponds are anywhere from 10 to 28 inches. The best way to catch the big bass is to use a popper and hook a small 10 inch guy. As soon as the big boys see the small guy struggle they go right to him and try and eat him. I watched a 9 year old girl catch a 24 inch large mouth. I sometimes bring my 5 year old son to fish these ponds when he is not having much luck on the trout streams. This helps keep him interested in fly fishing and not getting upset that he is not catching any fish.
