Have you considered night fishing around city island?

I tried a couple hundred yards below there at first light two weeks ago. It looked like great water, I was amped. Then two dudes waded out just upstream of me, crossed in front of me precisely where I was intending to fish, then moved around to downstream of me. I got slightly annoyed and relocated. I'm a tad leery of yaking unfamiliar water at night, but the prospect is intriguing... PM coming.

barrybarry - It was definitely one of those days. For me anyway...
