Dear Jake,

Ah, the old Binghamton Bonefish. I used to catch them up to about 16 -18 inches with consistency in the Susquehanna River. They'd hit poppers, streamers, even Rapalas and Tiny Torpedoes.

When I caught more than two in a stretch of river I'd move because when they are biting nothing else gets a chance.

Personally, I hold them in only slightly higher regard than lamprey eels.

Regards,

Tim Murphy 😊
