I refuse to be suckered into the endless circle jerk about this, so let this be the last post I make within this thread:

This is a stupid answer you've made.

Every time someone talks about something, it raises the priority and its awareness. Ergo, adding to it, as the third person, has increased the potential of someone noticing it by 33%, if not more since you've essentially Bumped To Top the subject if the prior two mentions were buried into the archives.

It is what it is. As I said, you may learn the lesson of your choosing and apply it as you see fit.

In this very thread, you have a confirmation from someone who lives there that two prior, buried, mentions of something have coincided with a dramatic increase of pressure, harvest, and someone explicitly mentioning that very thread. Furthermore, the person who provided the advise isn't someone who acts as a firebrand on either side of the argument, and generally speaking probably related more to the "public knowledge" side than not, at least prior to his observations.

Anyways, in a closing statement in no way related to anything useful on subject, I enjoy most of all that the people who seem to be most willing to argue and fight incessantly about this topic are the ones who complain most loudly about it.

1-I'm not trying to get you into a circle jerk.
2-I agree about the nature of the person who gave the advice. Its the first time I've ever read something on this site, for either side of this debate, that made me step back and think. That is why I ask genuine questions around this subject. I'm not in the "baiting" game at all. Never have been, never will be.
3-I agree, again.
