Did you find the water flow chart? It sounds like it but if not you should, like a guy on another board pointed out to me, they post 3 days before any major changes in the release. But man that could get really hairy if they ramped up the release flow while you were wading, though on a boat could be just as scary...

One day ill buy my pa liscence, and I'll be all over those waters... But for now ill just read and learn. And either, buy a liscence if I find the extra money, pretty much as soon as the fish start getting real active. I'll splurge on one, and regret not getting it earlier...

Though on a side note, I was up on the ny side a few nights ago and man, it's really sad seeing the resavore so low... Like pushing 20' down...
