I guess I'm not really sure who the landowner is in this matter? There is an older couple back that road. I've always had positive conversations with him and his wife. I helped them look for their dog one time last year. A beagle I think. There are several houses/cabins back that lane. There also appears to be someone living(?) on the other side of the creek too. Who owns the bridge?

On a note closer to the point it would be a shame to lose this parking area. If people would just be considerate of others this type of thing wouldn't happen. If that lot is full then just move on. Let's remember this is fishing, and an outlet/recreation.
