

---

Subject: : Conservation

Topic: : Medicine disposal

Re: Medicine disposal

Author: : jdaddy

Date: : 2012/9/26 12:57:04

URL:

Quote:

tomgamber wrote:

they already do. There was a day just last month where you could bring in old unused prescription meds for disposal. The specifically said they didn;t want people flushing them. More because it goes into OUR water supply, not the fishes. The outcome is the same..

find out where below...

Here is the link Tom was trying to post (his was cached with location). As you will note from the url, the biggest concern for the government is diversion of prescription medications i.e. kids stealing them out of cabinets, people selling prescription drugs, etc. Diverted and abused prescription pain medication kills more people than heroin and cocaine combined.

Disposal site link . . .

<https://www.deadiversion.usdoj.gov/NTB ... 13-1683-966D-DB3422F0472A>