I remember reading about this fly in the MAFF rag in the late 80's. I tied a few and don't recall much attention for them from the trout. But they do make great indicators for dry dropper combos. Float like corks.

This isn't it but it is close. Three hackle dry fly

Tail was grizzley, brown and dun hackle barbs. Hackle palmer three at a time grizzley, brown and dun.
