

---

Subject: : Conservation

Topic: : Fracking Spill into Pine Creek?

Re: Fracking Spill into Pine Creek?

Author: : MHanes

Date: : 2012/9/28 15:57:27

URL:

I just can't see any justification to bitching about lines and the arguments they will make us all sick thats just BS.

Where does everyone think heating oil comes from I will tell you one thing there is no oil fairy for that either. Not attacking you pcray just making a point that 95% or our energy sources rely on some form of extraction.

If guys still really believe all the crap that was in gas land they need to do some research most of that was total crap. Yeah there is pollution from drilling but the bigger issues are erosion and deforestation in the long run. But its a give and take and we do need jobs and industry in PA and the US. I don't know about most here but I for one would much rather see some evergy indepenence being gained by the US.

Its all about proper management and control. It also means we all can't go crazy over every little spill or accident that does happen because some will happen. One truck is nothing it was an accident if it was a deal where it was caught actually dumping waste into the river then we got a real problem.