

Subject: : Tips and Tricks

Topic: : fishing a two weight

Re: fishing a two weight

Author: : lv2nymph

Date: : 2012/10/8 19:17:27

URL:

I've been thinking about this and the fish I did not lose I had plenty of room to hold the rod up and move it around as things played out. I played them as I always have with a 4 weight in cover as tight as it was on that creek and that did not work. Don't get me wrong, it's not like I don't lose fish, just not every one I hook like that. It seems to me that this type of rod will challenge me in a scenario that I'm not used to being I guess you could say "freshly" challenged in. Yes, I curse the tree gods regularly but not as often as the beginning. Knee pads save the knees and chins, stalking gets me closer to the spot. I'm looking forward to figuring out my new rod, cause man it sure does make a five to seven inch brookie in a trickle of a creek feel so much larger. 🙏 I'll be more attentive to the points of my hooks and I'm sure slack in the line is when they got away whheff I tried to stop it but I did not get it together. Zen, I had a green beetle on, thanks for the info. on the nymphs. But you know I'm gonna try it anyway, not that I don't believe you. 😁