Musky prefer soft rayed fish. Trout, suckers & carp fall in right in there. But everything I read they take out the cripples or the struggling fish. There a easy meal. Im not saying they dont kill outta instinct, but that just in there nature there the APEX predator.

Joel your right they are a very fragile fish as far as handling , the way you fight 'em & fishery managment. They will literally kill them selves tring to get away. There such a muscular fish that the lactic acid builds up quickly and it hard for them to recover. And please pinch your barbs guys it safer for getting the hooks outta the fish and yourselves.
