Steve,

While I read stream reports, I usually rely mostly on the USGS site for up-to-date stream conditions to pick where to fish. It gives you exactly the info you mentioned ("Water Level, Water Clarity, Water FLOW may be some temps") all in real time.

Would have been useless at the Jam...all gauges showed extremely high flows, yet all but Penns was in great shape. There has been much debate lately as to whether posting a decent report is kosher...I believe some, who may normally post them, may not be doing so to avoid public scorn from the complainers...
