

Subject: : Fly Fishing Locations

Topic: : Donegal C&R FFO: fall fingerling RT stocked

Re: Donegal C&R FFO: fall fingerling RT stocked

Author: : iceyguides

Date: : 2012/10/24 11:26:50

URL:

Why rainbow trout? Why not browns? It seems like brownies have fared better there and might have a chance of establishing a fishable naturally reproducing population. There are wild bows but the browns are definitely the dominant streambred fish. As swattie mentioned the rainbow reproduction in the donegal is streaky. one year you'll catch a bunch of fingerling bows, the next 2 or 3 yrs you won't catch any.