

Subject: : Fly Fishing Locations

Topic: : Donegal C&R FFO: fall fingerling RT stocked

Re: Donegal C&R FFO: fall fingerling RT stocked

Author: : Swattie87

Date: : 2012/10/24 11:37:51

URL:

icey - I've never fished Donegal before, but it's funny you mention that as my experience with wild Bows on other marginal streams is the same. Some years you catch a bunch of little guys, then they disappear for a few years, but I've never caught a big wild Bow from these kinds of streams. And by big, I don't necessarily mean a huge fish, just an adult that looked clearly wild. I'm thinking that wild Bows in streams like these may be the result of a good holdover year in the stocker Bows (a few of whom figure out how to spawn), and not necessarily the result of a real self sustaining Bow population...it would be interesting to study that correlation.