Beadhead,
I use the Tie fast tool for my nail knots, but I also do the nail knot also using a quilter's needle as well .I have no trouble with nail knot failure, i also use blood knots an surgeon's knots too for tippet to leader attachment,no failures there either. But I have had a few too many failures using Flouro to attach to flies.
I have used uni ,trilene,and non slip mono loop knots for streamers an wets as well as nymphs.I use the clinh and improved clinch.IMHO flouro must like a certain knot better than other knots, I am just trying to figure out which knot that might be is all.

Thanks for the youtube video also, although that guy needs to use amnesia and a better background ,eyes were gettin messed up .
