Dan and I decided to head down to the Little Lehigh on Friday 10/27. We both had the day off and Dan has not fished the LL in warm weather and streams by us were blown out, down we went.

Fished hard from mid-morning till 1:30 took a quick break and back at it. Nymphs, wets and wooly buggers were tossed without success.

I was tired of chucking the nymphs and tied on a dry, just to feel the difference in casting. That started the activity for me. Got this one, stung two others and missed another. Need to work on keeping less slack in the line.

Also saw this little guy sunning himself.

Final pic is the Lehigh River up by Gouldsboro.
