I find it very discouraging that you guys are having those kind of issues and it is being suggested to carry spare parts on the stream for boot repair. I guess I never thought about the internal mechanism being plastic but now it's pretty obvious. I have the Simms RiverTec BOA. I bought them a size larger for winter fishing with lots of socks as the Simms boots in my normal size kills my circulation. I have only worn the RiverTek BOA 10 times or so this year but they have performed well. If you looking for a tight fitting boot the BOA system is not for you imo. I subsequently purchased a pair of Simms Rivershed with traditional laces which I really, really like.
