I've been at it non-stop since Sandy (I'm an insurance adjuster) so I really want to get a break from all the devastation and do some fishing. I've been all over, from WVA, PA, DE, NJ and NY and have seen the worse so I REALLY want to just chill and try to catch some stripers.

I'm hopeful that I can get away this Friday and am thinking about hitting up Brigantine. I've never fly fished salt water so I'm that much more excited to try to hook into a striper. I am also bringing my kayak to hopefully put in at the Brigantine/AC inlet.

If anyone else needs a break or just wants to get out and fish let me know! I'd really like to fish a more experienced person to up my odds but, at this point just being on the water would be nice change.
