I fish with an Orvis 7.5' Superfine Trout Bum 1-WT that I recently had customized with a new cork grip and reel seat, replacing the original cork grip with slip rings.

This by far my favorite rod to fish with. I have been fortunate to land wild browns from 3.5" to 14" and stocked trout up to 22" with this rod. The large arbor reel is key for landing larger fish.

It definitely took some getting used to when I first started casting with it, but I eventually got the hang of it.

Fishing ultra-light is always a blast, no matter what size fish you hook.

I am sure that I miss my share of fish but the ones that do get hooked always put a nice bend in the rod! Most times, I typically do not set the hook until I feel a fish tugging on my fly, after missing many fish by trying to set the hook when I see the fish take the fly. Apparently, the hand really is quicker than the eye...
