This is sort of related, not so much to actual wooly bugger technique, but helpful for learning how to cast them. As I said in my previous post I usually fish dry flies, so I had no idea how to cast a fly with any weight. Looking back I'm surprised I didn't hook the back of my neck.

I realize that this is slightly off topic, but I'm new to WBs too and I thought it might be useful to someone else that's just starting to try them.
