Good advice from the gang above. There's about a half dozen mediocre natural reproduction streams in northern Lanc Co, but as Squatch mentioned they're probably fishing pretty tough right now...low, clear, and cold is a tough combo on small freestoners. I don't have a lot of firsthand experience with Donegal but agree that's probably a good option with its stockers and relatively bigger flows. Send me a PM if you'd like some info on the smaller, wild streams.

Iron Hill is my favorite brew pub in Lancaster. Best food by far and a good selection of in house brews.
